SAY SOMETHING GOOD.

When over the fair fame of friend or foe The shadow of disgrace shall fall; instead
Of words of blame, or proof of thus and so, Let something good be said.

Forget not that no fellow being yet May fall so low but love may lift his head;
Even the cheek of shame with tears is wet.
If something good be said.

No generous heart may vainly turn aside In ways of sympathy; no soul so dead But may awaken strong and glorified,
If something good be said.

And so I charge you, by the thorny crows, And by the cross on which the Saviour died,
And by your own soul's hope of fair renewal,
Let something good be said!

FLAG OVER DENS OF INFAMY.

The rottenness which exists under the present Administration in the Philippine Islands is clearly shown in the following statement from an Indiana soldier boy, in a letter to his parents:

"DEAR PARENTS:—I received yours of August and was very glad to hear from home again. I expect to do my duty as a soldier true, but I tell you it goes against the grain to fight a people who for hundreds of years have been fighting for their freedom, and all because the wealthy class of Americans are another chance to make more millions.

"Another thing I wish to tell you about. You have no doubt heard of the army canteen (not the kind, pa-ther, that you carried, but Uncle Sam's saloon with William McKinley as bar-tender). Well, that is only a small affair by the side of what I am going to tell you of.

"About the same time we came here last October there were brought here from China about 800 of the lowest type of Chinese women, and they are installed in the houses, some for officers and some for private soldiers.

"Each inmate pays a tax of $4 per week to the military authorities, which includes a license to sell wine and beer. The worst of it is these houses are all decorated inside and out with the Stars and Stripes and at night the streets are a mass of howling, drunken, half-naked women and American soldiers.

"I have wondered what some of the Christian Republicans at home would say of the way the great Christianizing, liberty-loving and high-toned America is educating the Filipinos.

"And I see that the Republican papers say the flag must not come down, but I think if some of the old brethren and sisters could look over here some night and see Major McKinley's hoochie koochie in full blast under Old Glory they would not only say the flag must come down, but would tear it down.

THE WALLS RAN DOWN.

The Irishman who went up in the elevator without knowing what it was did not recover easily from the surprise, says the Irish Independent.

He relates it thus:
"I went to the hotel, and says I,
'Is Mister Smith in?'

"'Yes,' says the man with the sober cap. 'Will you step in?'

"'So I steps into the closet, and all of a sudden he pulls the rope, and—it's the truth I'm telling you—the walls of the building began runnin' down to the cellar.

"'Och, murthen!' says I; 'what'll become of Bridget' and the children which were left below there?'

"'Says the sober-cap man, 'Be easy, sory; they'll be all right when you come down.'

"'Come down, is it,' says I. 'An' it is no closet at all, but a haythenish balloon that you got me in.'

"'And will that the walls stop stock still, and he opened the door, and there I was wid the roof just over me head! And that's what saved me from going' up to the heavens entirely!'

PERFECTION.

The maiden asked: "Can you make me beautiful?"

"For $5" said the witch, "I can make you so beautiful that all the men will turn to stare at you as you pass."

The maiden smiled disdainfully.
Her experience had taught her this was not such an easy matter.

"For $3.75, former price, $9" said the witch, "I can make you so beautiful that the photographer will copyright your pictures."

Still the maiden, unsatisfied, shook her head.

"For $14 and only one at the price," said the witch, "I can make you so beautiful that you will not have a woman friend in the world?"

"Ah," cried the maiden, rapturous-ly, "that will be beauty, indeed!"—

THE SAFEST BANK.

The Bank of France is not entirely free from nervousness regarding the ability of the burglar and guards itself in a very careful manner.

Every day when the money is put into the vaults in the cellar masons are waiting and at once wall up the doors with hydraulic mortar. Water is then turned on and kept running until the cellar is flooded.

A burglar would thus have to work in a diving suit and break down a cement wall before he could even start to loot the vaults.

When the officers arrive next morning the water is drawn off, the masonry torn down and the vaults opened.

The treasures of the Bank of France are better guarded than any other in the world.

BRYAN TELLS OF HIS SURPRISE

Wm. J. Bryan has given the following statement concerning the election:

"The result was a surprise to me, and the magnitude of the Republican victory was a surprise to our opponents, as well as to those who voted our ticket. It is impossible to analyze the returns until they are more complete, but speaking generally, we seem to have gained in the large cities and to have lost in the smaller cities and country.

"The Republicans were able to secure tickets or passes for all their voters who were away from home and this gave them considerable advantage. We have no way of knowing at this time how much money was spent in the purchase of votes and in organization. But while these would account for some of the Republican gains, they could not account for the widespread increase in the Republican vote.

PROSPERITY DID IT.

"The prosperity argument was probably the most potent one used by the Republicans. They compared present conditions with the panic times of '93 to '96, and this argument had weight with those who did not stop to consider the reasons for the change.

"The appeal 'Stand by the President while the war is on' had a great deal of influence among those who did not realize that a war against a doctrine of self-government in the Philippines must react upon us in this country. We made an honest fight upon an honest platform, and haying done our duty as we saw it, we have nothing to regret.

"We are defeated, but not discouraged. The fight must go on. I am sure that Republican policies will be repudiated by the people when the tendencies of those policies are fully understood. The contest between plutocracy and democracy cannot end until one or the other is completely triumphant."

A CLEAR CONSCIENCE.

Concerning himself, Mr. Bryan said:

"I have come out of the campaign with perfect health and a clear conscience. I did my best to bring success to the principles for which I stood. Mr. Stevenson did all that he could; Senator Jones and the members of the Democratic, Populist, Silver Republican and Anti-Imperialist committees did all they could.
Mr. Hearst and his associates in the club organization put forth their best efforts. Our newspapers, our campaign speeches and our local organizations all did their part. I have no fault to find and no re-proaches. I shall continue to take an active interest in politics as long as I live. I believe it to be the duty of citizens to do so, and, in addition to my interest as a citizen, I feel that it will require a life-time of work to repay the political friends who have done so much for me. I shall not be a senatorial candidate before the Legislature which has been elected. Senator Allen deserves the Senatorship which goes to the populists. Mr. Hitchcock and Mr.
W. H. Thompson are avowed candidates for the Senatorship. They both deserve well of the party, and I am too grateful to them for past support to stand in their way, even if I desired a seat in the Senate."

TELEGRAPHIC MCKINLEY.

Mr. Bryan said he had no program of action for the immediate future.
He sent the following telegram to the President.

William McKinley, President, Canton, O.: At the close of another Presidential campaign it is my lot to congratulate you upon a second victory.

MCKINLEY TO BRYAN.

President McKinley answered Bryan's message in the following dispatch:

Hon. William J. Bryan, Lincoln, Neb.: I acknowledge with cordial thanks your message of congratulation and extend my good wishes.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

HOW A McDONALD LOST
HIS NAME.

(By W. M. Somerville.)
Reading the Times Union, of Jacksonville, Fla., recently, I came across the following announcement in the news: "The announcement is made of the death of Dr. J. C. Allred, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Ocala, which occurred this morning (5th of September). He was aged 75 years and was the father of N. M. Allred, a rising young attorney of this city, and Miss Jeanette Allred, for a number of years a successful teacher in the Jacksonville schools. Everybody had a great liking for Dr. Allred, who, in the early days of the town, was its dentist, and a man of such genial and pleasant ways that people loved to speak to him. Ocala will certainly miss the honest, honorable, high-toned gentleman." This recalled to my mind my first meeting with Dr.
Allred, and of how he lost the name of his ancestor, McDonald.

In going up the Ocklawaha on the steamer Okahumpok, nearly twenty years ago, I had the misfortune to break the glass of my pocket compass, and when I reached Ocala I was referred to Dr. Allred as the only man in that place who could repair it. I saw him coming across the Plaza and accosted him. I found him very courteous and pleasant. On going to his office I saw the sign "Calvin Allred," and made up my mind that he was a German; there was a turning-over-lathe and other tools, with some musical instruments lying about—all convincing to my mind that I was correct as to his nationality. But while the Doctor was grinding down the glass of an old English bull's-eye watch to fit my compass, I happened to mention that I had come up the river with Colonel Walker. "O yes, I know him," he said, "he married Judge McGhan's widow, or Mac-Abagan, as we say in Gaelic." "What do ye ken about Gaelic?" I said. "I taught ye was a German." I said, "I saw he, 'I'm a McDonald'." "Weel, then, how is it your sign reads Allred?" I said rather to a McDonald a day than Allred for a year." "O, man, I'll tell how that was. My great-grandfather was a McDonald in North Carolina, and when a scout in the Revolutionary army, whenever he killed a Tory or a Britisher he used to slit their right arm with his dick, so that when found they were covered with blood. And he was known as Allred McDonald. He had two sons, who came to be known as Allred's sons and my father's name was known as plain Allred. And now the name McDonald is entirely lost sight of." Mr. Allred also told me that in his father's house grace before meat and family worship morning and night were always conducted in Gaelic. I met his mother, a genuine little Highland body, who also spoke the Gaelic, as did hundreds of families in the Carolinas, where the Doctor was born and bred.

OYSTER TROUBLES.

Virginia's Executive Thinks Oystermen Wrongly Arrested.
(Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.)
RICHMOND, VA., Nov. 9.—Gov.
Tyler to-night mailed a letter to the Executive of Maryland relative to the arrest and punishment of Virginia oystermen in the Potomac river by the authorities of Maryland.

The communication recites that William B. Lewis, of King William county, Virginia, and William H.
Outler, of Accomac county, were arrested in the Potomac river on October 18, 1900, by T. C. B. Howard, commander of the Maryland police steamer, "Governor Thomas," charged with having on board oysters below the legal size, and were carried to St.
Mary's county, Maryland, where they were tried and convicted by a justice of the peace for the State of Maryland and fined $25 and costs in each case.

Gov. Tyler asks the Governor of Maryland to investigate the cases.
He calls attention to the compact entered into by the two states March 28, 1785.

"WARS ARE POPULAR."

Gen. "Joe" Wheeler Gives His View of McKinley's Victory.
MONTGOMERY, ALA., Nov. 9.— Gen. Joseph Wheeler says of the election:

"I did not go to Decatur to hear the returns Tuesday night. I do not like to go to funerals, and I felt and knew that Mr. McKinley would be overwhelmingly re-elected.

"There are two things the Americans reverence—first, their God, and second, their flag. A word against either will bring down their condemnation. There never was a President defeated for re-election who had conducted a successful war. Wars are popular in this country and are growing more popular with the masses. Any party that opposes a successful war President will meet with defeat."

THE SHOWER OF METEORS MAY FALL.

The coming of November brings up again in the breast of the watcher of the sky the question, "Is there any hope of this year seeing the meteors?" By which, of course, he means the great Leonid shower which appeared in 1833, again in 1866, but which, alas! did not appear in 1899.

Astronomers tell him there is not—in their opinion; that the swarm has been pulled out of its orbit by Jupiter and Saturn and is not likely ever again to impinge upon the earth's orbit and give us the grandest spectacle ever vouchsafed to man.

Mamma—Ethel, I must really forbid you touching that lobster—you know it does not agree with you."

Ethel (resignedly)—"Very well, mamma, but it does seem as if everything in this world that is nice is either wicked or indigestible."—Life.

A FAMOUS BEAUTY'S RESCUE.

Escaped from Danger by Walking Over an Admiral's Body.

Writing of "The Loveliest Woman in all America," William Perine, in the November Ladies' Home Journal, recalls the thrilling adventure of Emily Marshall, the famous Boston beauty, at Niagara Falls. She, with Nathaniel P. Willis and a young unusually college student, Job Smith, attempted to go under the falls, in those days a perilous undertaking.
After they had proceeded a short distance under the sheet of water there was a rumbling noise, and a commotion, and a part of the ledge, which formed the path, disappeared, cutting Miss Marshall off from her companions by an abyss six feet in width and leaving her but a small stone in the swirling torrents to stand upon. "In the commotion Job had been forgotten, but instantly a ray of hope shot into Willis' heart when he saw his rugged fellow, his sandy hair plastered over his forehead, his scanty dress clinging to his form like a skin and his hand trembling on the poet's shoulder as he steadied his steps. Without saying what he intended to do he crept down carefully to the edge of the foaming abyss till he stood up to his knees in the breaking bubbles.
It seemed impossible that he could reach the lovely creature or that she could jump forward safely from the slippery rock into his arms. Willis covered his eyes with fear and wonder. The next moment, when he opened them, there lay at his feet the quivering and exhausted girl. Job was nearly seven feet high. He had flung himself over the gulf, caught the rock with his fingers, and with certain death if he missed his hold Miss Marshall then quickly walked over his body in its bridge-like posture. At this moment the guide returned with a rope, fastened it around one of Job's feet and dragged him back through the whirl-pool.
When he recovered from the immersion he fell on his knees in a prayer of thanks to God, in which the poet and the beauty devoutly joined him.

PAUPER CORPSES AS TARGETS.

Interesting target practice is now in progress on the huge military target grounds, near Berlin, Germany, where the experts are testing the perforating capacity of the latest Manser model and the latest field guns that are being produced into the army. As targets several hundreds of pauper corpses are being used.

The bullets, when fired at a comparatively short distance, tear asunder all the softer inner organs and frantically mangle the bodies.

Help...
Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S
EMULSION
OF
COD LIVER OIL
WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.
